- Students will understand that the Forest can be a resourceful environment.

Shelter sheet

With a waterproof surface surrounded by a piece of double-breasted canvas you can easily and safely make a number of different shelter types all suited to your needs. All something more effective. Make use of natural shelter (a tree or a mound of earth) with the poncho leaning over the wind. Make a simple lean-to shelter. If it is very cold, and the weather is bad, you can make a double-breasted poncho shelter on a tree branch. If you don't have much material either it is that you can use over the snow. All the time of practice in making shelter in the field.
